

2025-26 Reference List

New Titles and Formats

This year, we are pleased to offer a host of new primary source titles across US and world history, American government, and—for the first time—business history. In addition, we are making our Historic Documents series available in print for the first time. Finally, we're rolling out 5 new digital collections that will be available via annual subscription.

Together, these resources offer valuable new research tools for students and instructional aids for teachers. Our mission remains the same: championing the pursuit of historical knowledge by students and researchers, helping them to apply that understanding to today's world.

Explore our full reference catalog

Download the 2025-26 order form

New Digital Collections

5 New Offerings

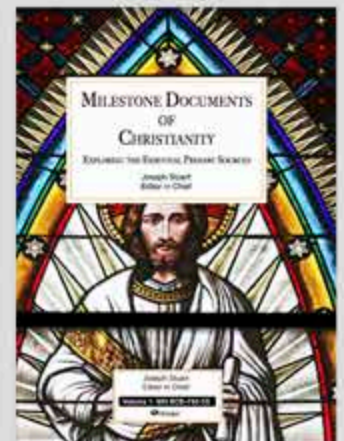

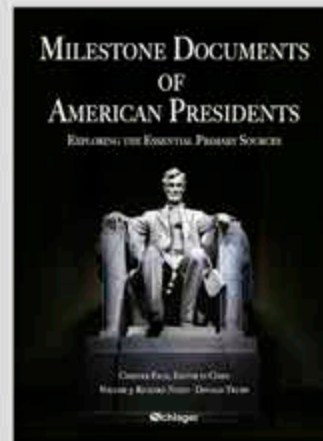

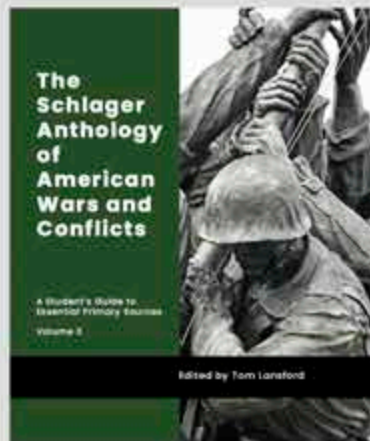

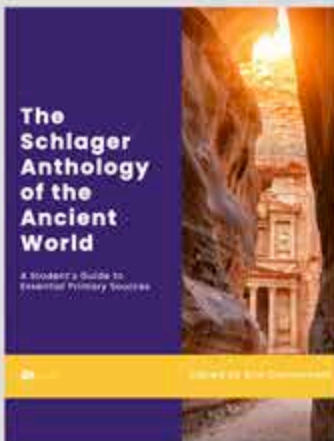

Women of the Supreme Court
Coming October 2025

Historic Documents Series

18 New Titles

Recently Published

“A rich resource for understanding Christianity's evolution and influence as Stuart guides readers through Christianity's impact across centuries and continents.”
(Library Journal)

Awards and Praise

